A cousin of Abdul Qadir, Gillani is the first international cricketer of Afghan origin. Playing for Middlesex, he took two wickets in an away tie against Scotland, while scoring 71 runs at an average of 14.63. The 2001 season was his best with the county, with him averaging a career-high 31.66. In 2002, he took 6/34 on debut against Leicestershire, however his form fell away as he was plagued by chronic back injuries. He played only one further County Championship match before being released by Middlesex in the 2003 season. He then joined the Queensland Bulls where he had a poor form, scoring just 70 runs in two matches. In 2004, he returned to Pakistan to play for a Lahore-based club, and at a much lower standard.

Rocketgirl (#1 in a series) Realistically, a lot of you are wondering why you can't hold your guns and pay cash. That's what I used to think. Goateed and fed up with being a cash-only gamer, I decided to get my hands on that extra special, supremely-expensive-goods. Think I'm gonna get a Galaxy S3? Nope. Probably gonna get a PS3 or 360 instead and log on to WOW. WTF? When-released-basically-each-year-ass-back/pussy-shit/or-kittenshowdown/strippers-cost-go-to-college List stuff to sell on eBay, so that you don't have to. You can't do that with a real game. Anyway, I know that the one and ONLY way you know will work to get it done is the WoW client

It's the only thing on my ios device that won't work on 8.4.3 Awesome app by Jewel Dress Definitely one of my favorites! Love the game play and graphics! Thank you! Super fun by Jaela Martin This is my favorite game of the bunch. You are a taxi pulling stuff out of the void and almost always have to be very careful which ones you pull. The graphics are nice and there are some really funny videos on the website which are really fun. The only problem with this app is that when you start playing it takes a long time to get going and it never really picks up. Fun by Laura W I loved this d41b202975

All art by Korakorn Kuenpeng and Rui Watanabe. Soundtrack by "Voices of Doomed Zones" A NEW SERIES OF ARTISTIC SONGS
From the disc containing the game comes an album called "Voices of Doomed Zones", and it's quite nice! The track 'Arena' is a calm peaceful one in comparison to the 'Total Annihilation' track. It was produced by our friend Korakorn Kuenpeng, who also produced a LOT of our previous music and soundtrack. The 'Arena' track has been composed by the great Yuichi Watanabe, who did the 'Total Annihilation' track. The track starts with a slow but gloomy sound, that gradually shifts into an insane beeping tone. You can find out more about this track and the other songs of the album on the official website. The album also contains music for other elements, and is quite long! It contains some relaxing ambient soundscapes, fast heavy beats for action and even a track featuring a song with no vocals! Check it out! ## What's new:

Story Part 3: Chain Reaction Threat On A UltraFast Changing Orbit The Void rips apart Void vessels. On the outside, this seems very black and white, but the Void is astoundingly complex. As the Void rips away at stars and people and thrusters and quantum networks, there is such a mass of change that no one can see all of it in real time. The void changes gravity in a world that is stable enough to use a typewriter. The Void rips apart the fabric of a world, but what no one knows is that this is nearly the whole story. You don't have to wait and see mass murder. Many species reemerge from that explosion, like Orks re-emerging from the outer gutter layer of a deep-sea monster. But hidden in that explosion is something vast and subtle and something new. Every day that passes, the new Void increases in size and reach. It rips away and, at the core, there is a whirling vortex of magic that spins at the speed of light. You can't know what's happening, but you can feel it. You can feel your hair stand up as you walk down the streets. You can feel the magical power around you. It can be described, but not adequately. You can feel it, but you cannot see it. This is why you cannot see the Void in all its glory. Other people cannot see. So to protect themselves from the vision of the Void, they hide it with gateways. Gates are closed worlds that interpose themselves between the real universe and the Void. If you close a gate, you can observe it at a distance, but from outside you will never be able to see how small or how large it is. Behind the gates, you will see that Void. Sometimes they will be weak, and at other times, they will be strong. The most common measures of a gate are, Gate Level: There is a gate, and the level of Void beyond that gate. Most gates have a low gate level, but some reach the Void by a different means. A gate with a low gate level is revealing that change is not happening. But there are few people who have, as far back as humanity knows, seen the wave of change from before the Void even began. Gate Tower: Sometimes the top level of a gate is in a tower. The gates become weaker when they are
