A: You're trying to download the document as an image, not PDF. Try changing lines 98-98 to: `URLConnection urlConnection = url.openConnection(); BufferedReader bufferedReader = new BufferedReader(new InputStreamReader(urlConnection.getInputStream()));` and lines 248-250 to: `while ((input = bufferedReader.readLine()) != null) { imageFiles.add(input); } bufferedReader.close();` Edit There is a much easier way to read the file. Download the file. Then browse to that folder and open the file through File Explorer. This will provide an interface for you to start the download immediately. Also, you should be able to copy and paste the stream directly into your code. Another Edit Since you only want to get a single line from the file, just do this: `imageFiles.add(input.substring(input.indexOf("."), input.indexOf(".") + 1));` After the tens of thousands of travelers who had flocked to its 11 Spanish airports to catch their holidays were forced to leave their homes in the first days of September, if only temporarily, on Thursday afternoon, the Civil Guard's Antonio Marco Moreno decided to add Almeria Airport to the list of depopulated airports. Close to 2,000 people on their way to North Africa and other parts of Europe were waiting to catch their flights, most from Portugal. Just as with the other airports, they had to leave their homes and enter their credit cards to book their tickets, among them many Moroccans, Spaniards and Portuguese, as well as some from other European countries. Away from the excitement of the other airports, which had been experiencing a boom thanks to the big number of tourists who were heading to the Spanish coast, Almeria Airport was facing a huge problem for more than 24 hours. On Thursday, many of those who had been checking in their luggage at the check-in counters while the Spanish government had started to make arrangements to restart operations at the airports had to leave empty-handed and move to the departure hall. At least one of the queues, in the Terminals 4 and 5, were several hundred people long, with departures scheduled to leave at 8.30 in the morning.Q: Did the Industrial Revolution not involve evolution? We are told that
